

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and system for manipulating a broadcast signal utilizes a sliding-window time range multicast or a buffered storage queue at the headend. Multiple streams are available to the end user, which each stream originating from 5 a corresponding different playback point in the sliding-window time range or headend buffered storage queue.

00000000000000000000000000000000